DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-33, and 37-42 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Harrison (US Patent No. 4,546,510).

Harrison discloses (see attached sheet) an elongated shaft, the shaft having a proximal and distal end and a forward and rearward side; the proximal end further comprising an opening, the opening integral with the elongated shaft and sized and configured to accommodate placement of a forefinger of a user through the opening; the forward side comprising a generally concave surface; the forward side further comprising a plurality of open-sided recesses configured to receive fingers of the user; the rearward side comprising a generally convex surface; and the distal end further comprising a protrusion extending at least distally and forward from a distal-most recess; wherein the device is capable of receiving the forefinger is placed through the opening and remaining with other fingers are placed in the recesses such that they are uncovered on one side and such that the protrusion forms an impact element extending at least distally and forward of a pinky finger of the user.

Harrison discloses the claimed invention except for claimed configuration of the forward and rearward sides, the dimensions of the device (parts thereof).

Art Unit: 3711

Applicant has not provided any criticality with respect to the dimensions of the device (parts thereof) in the disclosure.

It would have obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide the device and parts thereof with the claimed dimensions, since it has been held that discovering an optimum value of a result effective variable involves only routine skill in the art. In re Boesch, 617 F.2d 272, 205 USPQ 215 (CCPA 1980).

With respect to the forward side being a generally concave surface and the rearward side being a generally convex surface, Applicant has not provided any criticality with respect to these features in the disclosure.

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill at the time the invention was made to provide the forward side being a generally concave surface, and the rearward side being a generally convex surface, as an obvious design choice.

Furthermore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide the forward side being a generally concave surface, and the rearward side being a generally convex surface, since it has been held that a change in configuration would only involve routine skill in the art. In re Dailey 149 USPQ 47.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to the claims have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

Art Unit: 3711

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
